"UNCLE SAM" ALLEN DEAD.—"Uncle Sam" Allen, the well-known old colored man who resided in or near town so many years, died, at Mt. Sterling, last Thursday afternoon, of Bright's disease of the kidneys. His funeral took place Friday, burial in the colored cemetery at the west end of Owensville that afternoon. Uncle Sam belonged to the Allen family in slave times. He was born in Bourbon county twenty-two years ago, but lived most of his life in Bath. His wife, Aunt Ader, died a few years ago. The majority of their large family of children survive. Uncle Sam was an industrious, quiet, well-liked, old-fashioned colored man.

FRIDAY'S WIND.—A heavy wind near noon last Friday did a good deal of damage throughout the county by blowing down the fencing. In some places it reached the fury of a tornado. Among the damage done, it blew down a barn on the farm of the widow of Elijah Boyd, near Reynoldsville. Her son Ed lives on the farm. On the farm of Mrs. Lucy Donnan on Lower Slate Creek at the mouth of Still-house Branch, or "Happy Hollow," it almost ruined two tobacco barns by twisting and creeling them over. Across Slate from the latter it blew down a stock barn on the former James Arnold farm, owned by Clay Donnan.

It is learned from a passenger on the train that on the same day the wind blew off the roof of the Winchester railroad depot, wrecked the restaurant near by, and scattered the roof of a distillery a short distance west of Mt. Sterling.

It blew down a tobacco barn and a large lot of fencing on the farm of James Albert Wright, on Flat Creek.

COURT DAY.—Monday was a pleasant day, and the attendance at Court was of fair size. The candidates were busy, but there was much less than the usual amount of intoxicating beverages consumed by the crowd, and the day passed off very nicely.

About 135 cattle were offered on the market, but the buyers and sellers putting different valuations upon them, not all were sold. A few shoats were sold at 3 cents per lb. A few horses and mules changed owners at low prices.

The hardware, saddlery and harness, grocery and drug merchants had a good trade; dry-goods and furniture were dull. Collections were slow. There was some demand for money with which to purchase cattle and hogs.

DEATH OF MRS. JAMES B. TIPTON.—After suffering for several months with abscess of the liver, Mrs. James B. Tipton died at her home in Mt. Sterling Monday, March 8th, at 12 o'clock, noon. The funeral took place Tuesday, interment in Macpherson Cemetery, that city, in the afternoon. Deceased was before marriage Miss Miranda Tackett, of Illinois; Felix Tackett, of near town, and Mrs. Belle Watson, of Winterwood, Indiana. After her marriage to James B. Tipton she resided with her husband for some years in this town. For several years past they had resided in Mt. Sterling, where they were held in the best esteem of the people, the husband being a prominent business man. Deceased was a most excellent woman and had a large number of warm personal friends in this town and county. She was a devoted member of the Christian Church. She leaves one son, Albin, an estimable young man. The stricken husband and son have the warmest sympathy of their many friends in Bath county in their great sorrow.

TOBACCO REPORT.—EXPRESSLY FOR THE OUTLOOK BY J. S. PHELPS & CO., PLANTERS WAREHOUSE.—Louisville, Ky., March 6, 1897.—Under pressure of another week's heavy business, prices have held firm on all grades of useful tobacco ranging from $4.50 to $12 per hundred. The real common and workman's sort are even lower than last week, and we again advise our friends who have common crops to dry them, as they certainly can lose nothing by holding these grades, with the chances in their favor of a small planting causing a considerable advance.

There have been but few real fine hogsheads offered this week, but the breaks have shown more than the usual number of good, useful tobaccos, ranging in price from $8 to $12 per hundred. As the time for warmer weather approaches more care should be taken in regard to the order in which tobacco is dried. In all cases common trash and flyings should be dry and weigh not less than 1,000 lbs. net.

Old tobaccos have been stronger this week, especially is this the case with color trashes.

Sales for the week.....4,740 Receipts for the week.....2,905 Sales since Jan. 1 to date.....36,990 Receipts since Jan. 1 to date.....28,771

Sales to same date.....40,810 Receipts to same date.....32,659 Percentage of rejections to auction sales this week, 25 per cent.

THE DISTRICT PRIMARY.—The primary election to nominate Democratic candidates for Judge and Attorney in the 21st district Saturday passed off with most commendable peacefulness in this county, and throughout the district, so far as heard from. The campaign was extremely hot. Intoxicants were freely used, and a large amount of money, so it is reported.

The vote will be counted and announced on Wednesday after The Outlook goes to press. Hence, we can only give the reported unofficial vote.

COOPER'S BATH, 259; Menifee, 233; Montgomery, 487; Rowan, 371; total, 1,340. Cooper's plurality, 202.

DAY—Bath, 251; Menifee, 340; Montgomery, 445; Rowan, 102; total, 1,138.

NESBITT—Bath, 794; Menifee, 39; Montgomery, 125; Rowan, 80; total, 1,038.

TILES—Bath, 339; Menifee, 17; Montgomery, 604; Rowan, 30; total, 990.

The total vote polled in Bath was 1,643. The highest vote for Bryan last November was 1,791.

FOR COMMONWEALTH'S ATTORNEY. CASIDY—Bath, 88; Menifee, 26; Montgomery, 438; Rowan, —; total, —.

YOUNG—Bath, 518; Menifee, 72; Montgomery, 609; Rowan, —; total, —.

It is conceded that the face of the returns give the nominations to Cooper and Williams. Day charges fraud in Rowan and will contest.

PERSONAL.

W. L. Kilpatrick returned from Mt. Sterling Friday.

Miss Mattie Pierce, of Salt Lick, visited in town Monday.

James H. Crouch is a very sick man with typhoid pneumonia.

Mrs. John Scott returned Friday from a visit to her sister at Midway.

Oscar Palmer has gone to Millersburg to spend a few days with friends.

J. W. Hutcheson has been sick for several days, but it is hoped to not be serious.

S. M. Parcell, of Louisville, was in town the first of the week on insurance business.

Miss Bettie Donaldson, of Sharpsburg, is visiting her uncle, T. S. Shroul, this week.

Squire John A. Daugherty has rented of Dr. G. W. Conner the Donaldson residence.

A. R. Robertson and M. H. Vice, of Bethel, were on the Louisville tobacco breaks last week.

Mrs. Walter Harper, of Mt. Sterling, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. B. Brother, the past week.

S. S. Pinney, of Mt. Sterling, joined his family here Thursday and spent a few days with J. M. Brother.

Henry Spencer and family, after a residence of several years in Ralls county, Mo., returned last week to their old Kentucky home.

Brutus and Richard Burbridge left last Thursday to make their home at Dalton, Ill. The best wishes of their friends go with them.

Fred Lynn, J. R. and A. C. Corbin, of Bethel precinct, were on the Louisville tobacco breaks last week. Also, Geo. A. Peed, of this town, was there.

Thomas Boyd, son of James S. Boyd, of White Oak, has gone to Lane, Kansas, to make his home with his brother John. The best wishes of his Bath county friends attend him.

Samuel Jackson, of Olympia, has rented the farm near Millersburg owned by Mrs. Jacob Warner and will move to it. We are sorry to lose the good citizenship of Mr. Jackson and family.

The friends of James Kendall will be interested to know that he is at Randolph, Clay Co., Mo., where the Advance, of that county, mentions that he and Ed. Crockett recently made the music at Miss Gertie Elliott's birthday party.

James Alley, for the first time in several years, visited this town Monday and paid The Outlook a friendly call. Mr. Alley was formerly one of the most esteemed and prominent citizens of the Upper Licking section of Bath county. He emigrated to Oxford, Kansas, and shortly after his arrival there was elected Mayor of that city, and now prospers famously. Evidently that country agrees with him, for he is in robust health and a man of strikingly handsome appearance. He was called back to his old home by the recent death of his father, Alfred Alley, of near the mouth of Beaver Creek, on the Rowan side.

STATE NEWS.

At Benton, Thomas Waller fell off his horse in a race and was killed.

Major Wm. H. Owens, the veteran Louisville police officer and detective, died last week.

In a fight over a Miss Whitehead, in Leslie county, Riley Coates killed Willie Callahan.

Raiders destroyed three toll gates in the Kirkville neighborhood of Madison county.

Charles Shelton, being jilted by his affianced bride, shot himself dead near Big Eagle bridge in Scott Co.

The citizens of Alexandria are petitioning Judge Helm to order Jackson and Walling to be hanged in that town.

W. Tom Burns, of a Cynthia grocery firm, killed himself with a pistol. He was aged 55 and leaves four children.

Miss Ida Webb, of Glenville, Adair Co., killed herself with strychnine. She was to have been married in a few days.

City Attorney Stone decided the Louisville anti-high-theatre-hat ordinance unconstitutional and Mayor Todd vetoed it.

Soldiers to keep back the crowd of curious people will probably be sent to the hanging of Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling on March 20th.

Rev. J. T. McMurry, of Berea, Madison county, was arrested on a warrant charging him with false swearing.

Frank Lakes, with a Winchester, and Charles Drew, with a shotgun, had a shooting match near Pine Grove, Jackson Co. Drew was killed.

Gov. Bradley has selected Dr. T. W. Gardiner, of Madisonville, to succeed Dr. Letcher, resigned, as Superintendent of the Hopkinsville Asylum.

The Sandusky House at Central City, on the Illinois Central R.R., burned, with a $23,000 loss. Most of the guests escaped in only their night clothes.

Chas. W. Stone, Assistant Cashier of the defunct Midway Deposit Bank, under indictment for embezzlement, forfeited his $750 bond by skipping out.

—A great surprise was created by the acquittal of John Beard, ex-Chief of Police and ex-City Collector, of a charge of misusing the funds of the town of Nicholasville.

—Ex-Cashier Wm. M. Shipp, of the defunct Midway Deposit Bank, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary on the trial of one of the cases against him, at Versailles.

—J. A. Peak, of Auburn, in the Green river country, an old printer and known to local fame as a humorist-writer over the pen-name "Jap," killed himself with morphine.

—The Hopkinsville (or Western) Insane Asylum trouble is in process of regulation. Dr. Ben Letcher, Superintendent, sent in his resignation, and it was accepted by Gov. Bradley.

—Ben Bradley's wife Dora died, at Millersburg, it is alleged, of strychnine on an apple given her by her husband. Threats of lynching caused Bradley to be taken to the Paris jail. The Bradleys are colored.

—At Jackson, the following young men were sentenced to the penitentiary for terms of from six to ten months on charges of larceny: Vol and Stephen Crawford, Andy Hayes, Lum and Walter Dale.

—The Big Sandy steamboat Favorite, bound for Pikeville and heavily loaded with passengers and freight, struck a log and sank in deep water near the mouth of George's Creek. The people on board were saved with difficulty. The boat and cargo are a total loss.

—The old Lexington darkey Lewis is George Clark, on the strength of his claim to being the original of "George Harris" in Mrs. Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was given a benefit in New Zealand, which netted $323. He received a remittance for that sum recently, and is correspondingly happy, for he was almost suffering for the necessities of life.

—Owing to quarrels between the city and the county jailer at Newport, the jailer has been sufficiently annoyed to speak his mind there were only five Indians—four Shawanese and one Cherokee. They could speak good English and they said they should go to the Shawanese town. The war club we got was like those I have of that nation. Several words of their language, which the girls retained, were known to the Shawanese.

After the girls came to themselves sufficiently to speak their mind there were only five Indians—four Shawanese and one Cherokee. They could speak good English and they said they should go to the Shawanese town. The war club we got was like those I have of that nation. Several words of their language, which the girls retained, were known to the Shawanese.

They also told them that the Cherokee had killed or driven all the people from Wataga or thereabouts, and that fourteen Cherokees were then on the Kentucky waiting to do mischief.

If the war becomes general, of which there is the greatest appearance, our situation is truly alarming. We are about finishing a large fort and intend to keep possession of this place as long as possible. They are, I understand, doing the same thing at Harrodsburg and also in Elkhorn, at the Rocky Springs. The settling on Licking creek, known by the name of Hink Stones, has been broken up. Nineteen of the settlers are now on their way in—Hinkstones among the rest.

They all seem deaf to anything we can say to dissuade them. Ten, at least, of our people are going to join them, which will leave us with less than thirty men at the fort.

I think more than 300 men have left this country since I came out, and not one has arrived except a few cabiners down the Ohio. I want to return as much as any person can, but if I leave the country now there is scarcely one single man who will not follow the example.

When I think of the deplorable condition a few helpless families are likely to be in, I conclude to stick life out as I can in their defense rather than make an ignominious escape. I am afraid it is in vain to sue for any relief from Virginia, yet, the convention encouraged the settlement of this country, and why should not the extreme part of Fin Castle be as justly entitled to protection as any part of the country? If any expeditions were carried on against those nations who are at open war with each other we might be in a measure relieved by drawing them off to defend their towns.

If anything under heaven can be done for us I know of no person who would more willingly engage in forwarding us assistance than yourself.

I do, at the request and in behalf of all the distressed women and children and the inhabitants of this place, implore the aid of every leading man who may have it in his power to give us relief.

Early Days in Ky. (Louisville Times.)

In the Hart County News is published a most interesting letter, furnished by Mrs. J. W. Woodson, of Manfordsville, whose great-great-uncle was the writer. This is the letter:

BOOKSBOUGHTON, July 12, 1778.—My Dear Sir: The situation of our country is much altered since I wrote you last. The Indians seem determined to break up our settlement, and I really believe, unless it is possible to give us some assistance, that the greater part of the people may fall a prey to them.

They have, I am satisfied, killed several, whom, at this time, I know not how to mention.

Many are missing, who, some time ago, went out about their business. Fresh signs of Indians are seen every day.

I think I mentioned to you before some damage they had done at Leiston on the 7th of this month.

I can not write. You can better guess at my ideas from what I have said than I can express them.

I am, dear sir, yours most affectionately to my last moments.

To Col. Preston. J. FLOYD.

Bull-back Ride. (New York World.)

The emergencies which made heroines of so many women of the early colonial days have not even now ceased to arise in some parts even of the older settled portions of the country. An instance in this line occurred only last week, and within a few hours' ride of New York, which might well go down with some of the pluckiest exploits of the pioneer mothers.

In a desolate, lonely place near Stamford, Pa., there lives a family consisting of husband, wife and a young daughter. The husband has to be away from home a good deal on account of the nature of his work, and was away last week when his daughter was taken ill. The mother exhausted her store of household remedies, but the girl grew rapidly worse. There was not a doctor within more than four miles, and there was no neighbor within reach to go for him.

But even that was not all the poor mother's source of perplexity. The girl's condition was fast becoming so alarming that, desperate as the step seemed, she saw that she must herself go for the doctor. And there was no horse to take her. Her husband was too poor to own a horse even if he had much use for one, which he had not.

The wild mountain roads were rough and clogged in places with snow. To think of undertaking the journey on foot and ever getting to the doctor in time to bring him to the sick girl's bedside in season to have his service of any avail seemed little short of madness.

But the doctor must be reached, otherwise the child's death seemed certain. The woman went to the doorway of her little home and looked forth on the bleak, wintry hills. Then an idea came to her. It was desperate, but the situation demanded desperate measures. Among the live stock her husband owned was a young and frisky bull, barely two years old, but rather tamed down by scanty rations and the general winter depression. He was skinny and his backbone suggested a serrated ridge of miniature peaks. But the brute had abundant strength to travel, and if he could be clubbed into some sort of sense he might be used as a conveyance.

There was nothing to hitch to; he must be ridden. So, after exhaustive maneuvering, the plucky woman managed to get a rope tied to each of his horns, and, with a strong club in her hand, she at last managed to mount him and head him out into the highway.

He proved a very sensible and decently disposed sort of a beast, obeying the sharp jerks to the right and left from the ropes on his horns, and galloping off finely along the road when he was properly encouraged by the club. It was not an equestrian expedition that would quite do for the park, but the poor mother thought little of that. She was after the doctor to come and save her child from death, and after nearly two hours of jolting jolt she got there. The doctor was not at home, and it would be some time before he would return, but his wife promised for him that he should respond to that call if he never did to another. She urged the woman to wait and ride back with him, but she would not listen to it.

She must get back to her child, and off she went on her groggy mount. The bull had settled down to a philosophic acceptance of the situation by this time, and started off at a brisk canter, possibly with some sordid association in his intellectual between the homeward road and the shelter and fodder at the end of it. About a mile from the house he saw a man driving a mountain wagon along the road in front of him, and that man had the inconceivable impudence to wear a red shirt.

From that time on the return was one wild, headlong charge. The man heard the snorting and clatter behind him, and when he looked around and got a glimpse of the awful nightmare freak that was pursuing him, he lashed his horses onward with the very frenzy of fright.

There was no need of the club now. It fell by the wayside, and the woman's whole energies were devoted to hanging on. She clung to the bull's back until he reached her home, when she rolled off unharmed in the snow, while the bull and the man in the red shirt disappeared in a cloud of flying snow and gravel over the crest of the nearest hill. At the last accounts no tidings of either the one or the other had been received.

But the doctor came along soon after and had two patients on his hands, for the mother, too, had to take to her bed after her rough experience. Her daughter's life was saved, however, and she, too, will soon be none the worse for her heroic exploit.

INAUGURATED.

Wm. McKinley and Garrett A. Hobart Installed in Office.

One as President, the Other as Vice President of a Great Nation.

The Inaugural Parade Was a Gorgeous Spectacle—Graceful Interchange of Courtesy Between President and Incoming Officials—The City.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Wm. McKinley and Garrett A. Hobart were installed in the White House today at noon. The oath of office was administered to Mr. McKinley by Chief Justice Fuller, after which the new president delivered his inaugural address, in part as follows:

Fellow Citizens: In obedience to a will of the people and in their presence by the authority vested in me by the Constitution, I have assumed the duties of the office of President of the United States, and I am proud to have the honor of being sworn in by you.

The inauguration of the President of the United States is a day of national importance. It is a day when the people of the United States are reminded of the great principles of liberty and justice which are the foundation of our government. It is a day when the people are reminded of the great responsibilities which are placed upon the President of the United States.

TROOPS DEFEATED.

More Than One Thousand Spaniards Left Dead on the Field.

Remainder of the Troops Dispersed in Disorder—The Spanish Commander, Gen. Vara del Rey, Narrowly Escaped a Capture.

New York, March 4.—A special dispatch to the Sun from Manzanillo, February 27, via Havana, says: The Spanish column of Gen. Vara del Rey, 2,000 men strong, was defeated and dispersed two days ago by the Cuban forces under command of Gen. Calixto Garcia. More than 1,000 Spaniards were left dead on the estate Costomada, and the remainder part of the column entered Manzanillo in the greatest disorder, proving how serious the defeat was.

In spite of the art of snatching victory from defeat, in which the Spanish officials' reports so greatly excel, Gen. Vara del Rey is obliged to confess his disaster, though finding an excuse in the superior numbers of the Cubans and the advantage of their position. In his report, known at Manzanillo, though probably it will not be published, he says that he lost 1,500 men, and estimates the Cubans at over 4,000. The Spanish dead, he says, were 500, and he adds, that notwithstanding he was obliged to retire, the losses of the Cubans were very heavy.

The battle turned against the Spaniards when Gen. Vara del Rey tried to cross on his way to Manzanillo, the river. He was met by the Cuban forces, and the battle was fought on the river. The Cuban forces were victorious, and the Spaniards were defeated.

Or the inauguration it could not be said. "And there stood Old Kentucky."

CONGRESSMAN PUGH's friends will request Speaker Reed to appoint him to a place on the Judiciary Committee.

Gov. BRADLEY summons the General Assembly to meet in extra session Saturday, March 18th, and specifies forty-two subjects for legislation, some of great importance.

THE Ewing Inquirer, edited and published by J. D. Wyatt at Ewing, Fleming Co., is a newsy and most worthy newspaper candidate for public favor. Success to the Inquirer.

THE Richmond Register celebrated its 31st birthday by becoming a semi-weekly. The Register is one of the old reliable that sets the pace for the other country newspapers.

ON March 15th the new Congressional trouble begins. President McKinley undoubtedly wants "Congress on his hands." He will tire of Congress many a time during the four years to come.

THOMAS A. DAVIS, Tuesday of last week, celebrated the 30th anniversary of the establishment by him of a Republican newspaper in Mayville by issuing a reminiscential number of eight pages of the Mayville Public Ledger. Bro. Davis is doubtless as easy and hopeful now as he was thirty years ago. He knows how to make a readable paper every issue.

LOUISVILLE wants to enter for the cleanliness prize by passing a law against spitting in the city buildings and any public places. That suggests an ancient Iberian joke that is worth reviving.

A son of the Emerald Isle was hired for porter at a hotel. Among his other duties he was instructed to make every body entering the office spit in the spittoon. The Paddy construed it literally. The first arrival was a stately gentleman of distinguished appearance, who registered, sat down and began reading a newspaper. At first the new porter eyed the guest with marked interest. Then he began to glare at him savagely. Finally he picked up a cuspidor and, marching up to the gentleman, indignantly said: "O'jee watched ye fifteen minutes and ye've never spit wanst. Now, dom ye, spit!"

It is Senator Wood now. Gov. Bradley appointed Major A. T. ("Dick") Wood, of Mt. Sterling, to succeed Senator Blackburn. Senator Wood will serve until the General Assembly elects a Senator.

On next Wednesday, March 17th, St. Patrick's day, Corbett and Fitzsimmons will fight their great battle at Carson, Nevada. The interest in the fight will be more general and intense than that in the inauguration last week.

The smallest crowd at any inauguration since 1881 went to Washington to see McKinley installed. The cause was not so much the hard times as the wofully small spread of political pie, thanks to Civil Service reform.

The Mt. Olivet Advance is now edited and published by Geo. W. Jett and L. W. Humble. Mr. Jett was one of the founders of the Advance about seven years ago. It becomes independent in politics and is a good paper. We wish it well.

The prospects now of Senator Wood being seated are not favorable, owing to precedent being against it in the Mante case. The Republicans Senators met in secret caucus and discussed the question, a majority being against seating Wood, it is reported.

Gov. BRADLEY evidently believes in combating popular superstitions. He has abolished in practice the old custom of making Friday hangman's day. He calls the General Assembly in extra session to meet on the 13th day of this month, possibly with an idea of giving the thirteen superstition a body blow.

SUBSTANCE of Hanna's telegram to Bradley—"Hump yourself, Bill; we need in our business a Republican Senator from Kentucky—Mark."

Substance of Bradley's reply to Hanna—"Yuba Dam, Mark; you're gittin' mighty fresh—Bill."

The question is whether Bradley's tart reply has quelled his influence with the new administration.

Pike county, this State, is the home of Rev. N. T. Hopkins, who by successful contest got to serve a few days as Congressman. His prominence and success have tempted two other Pike county preachers from the pulpit to the political pit. The silver men have nominated Rev. W. J. May for the Legislature, and the Republicans send against him Rev. Anderson Hatfield for the same office. The scholar in politics, instead of elevating politics, generally lets himself down to the lower levels of the same, and ministers do likewise.

STATE Senators Rummans and Hissem, Republicans, have it in for Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter if he should be the Republican caucus nominee for Senator when the General Assembly meets. It is charged that Dr. Hunter accused these gentlemen of selling out against him last session, receiving in payment a part of the $40,000 sent by the Bimetallic League to Franklin to aid Blackburn. J. M. Faulk, Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture, is quoted as repeating Hunter's statement to that effect. The friends of these two Senators say Hunter must make a public apology before they would support him as the nominee.

Marion Doggett, of Reynoldsville, sold his property and will move to Oklahoma in a few days. Also, Grafton Johnson sold his household and kitchen furniture. Everything brought good prices, considering the hard time.

When, oh, when will the time come when a man will make a race for an office without the use of booze and whiskey? Are the honest, upright citizens ruling, or is the bad element ruling? What hopes has an honest man for ever having a chance to aspire to a position of honor or trust. It seems to be a thing of the past. The excuse is, they all use the same means. Does that ameliorate the crime? It may ease the conscience for awhile, but the cause remains the same. With the law bearing heavily on the violator of the law, there is always a back-door left open or a gap down for the guilty to escape.

Stepstone.
